Letter from Langshott

10th October, 2021

My Dear friends and creative thinkers,

*“No-one owes you a favour”
ak*

This principle is worthy of being embraced. A favour is a selfless act. There should be no expectation of a return from the one to whom you've done a favour.

I am the result of all the selfless favours done to me by Nature. It is in Nature's nature to Give without any expectation of a return. This is pure selfless Giving without any record of what's Given.

I am in sync with Nature when I adopt selfless giving – that is ‘doing favours without any expectation of favours in return’

When I do this I carry no burden of having to remember what I have to collect back.

Equally, if someone does me a favour, I must not see this act as any burden upon me of indebtedness. The tide of generosity that comes my way is nullified if I compel myself to reciprocate correspondingly. The net result is zero. Giving is squared up.

Instead, I should perform an act of generosity toward another being. This process of propagation of good act adds to all-around societal growth, prosperity and joyfulness, whilst an act of returning a favour reduces it to being transactional and conditional.

To make 'Giving' a purpose in life with no expectation of a return is the noblest act performed by the one who is a torchbearer of kindness and generosity.

Be blessed.
