My Dear friends and creative thinkers,

"When all you have is a prayer,
then there is no battle"
- Anil Kumar

They say the reach of a mind that is replete with purity and intensity of compassionate thoughts is beyond measure. It radiates such penetrative power that even the vibrations of, not only animate, but also inanimate, objects are touched by it.

An individual with such a mind purifies their environment and creates coherence with it. Coherence embodies synchrony and harmony as in an orchestra.

There are people whose every breath is saturated with prayers of harmony. They have no conflict with anything or anyone. They carry no burden of appendages like emphatic good or bad and right or wrong. They simply sail along and go about their business free of opinions or fear or anxiety.

And some there are who habitually swim in crocodile-infested waters and return unscathed, and some may find themselves dropped in a snake pit, but emerge as snake charmers. Mosquitoes and spiders keep a safe distance from them.

Sadly, there are many who pray daily, but do not wear and live their prayer for they have not learnt to let it flourish.

The power of prayer is unimaginable - enkindle it.
